APPEAL FOR CULTURE--- HIGHER STANDARDS OF EDUCATION DISTINGUISHED RHODES SCHOLAR DELIVERS UNIVERSITY LECTURE ---OXFORD AND MCGILL CONTRASTED

A large audience, comprising many distinguished people in academic and business circles, listened with rapt attention to the University lecture delivered in the Royal Victoria College last evening by Prof. Herbert J. Rose, recently appointed assistant professor of Classics and formerly a McGill Rhodes Scholar, who won the blue ribbon in competition with the keenest classical minds in the British Empire. In his usually happy vein Principal Peterson introduced the speaker, declaring that while the public might hold the opinion that Oxford and Cambridge existed solely to provide careers for the annual boat race, no doubt Prof. Rose by his lecture would dispel that idea. He also referred to the fact that in former years McGill was forced to seek her professors in other countries whereas of late years she had been able to enlist many from among her own graduates.

Prof. Rose then began his address. He prefaced his remarks by stating that he was greatly pleased to be back once again at McGill, his Alma Mater, and proceeded to describe the history of McGill's rapid rise. After referring to the necessity of technical schools, faculties of science and medicine, Prof. Rose made a strong plea for the Faculty of Arts and the acquirement of culture. Oxford was the most eminent example. What the Faculty of Arts was to McGill University, so Oxford stood in the same relation to the other Universities of the world. At Oxford the students entering are possessed of a good general education, and the University tutors do not need to concern themselves with imparting the rudiments, as is the case on this side of the Atlantic. The speaker here spoke in no uncertain terms regarding the small salaries paid to teachers, and urged the necessity of adopting a higher standard in the schools throughout the Dominion. At Oxford also the tutorial system was undoubtedly an advantage, and owing to the large number of colleges the students of each could become intimately acquainted with each other. At McGill this was impossible. Oxford was also a great political centre, and even in their undergraduate days the students there give expression to their opinions and thus acquire that faculty in debate so necessary to public men. In their debates at the Oxford Union, the discussion was conducted on a high plane, and as a result her representatives occasionally reached the ranks of statesmen and not that of mere politicians. Further, Oxford set the standard of English used throughout Great Britain, and the University Freshmen as a rule wrote a style of English greatly superior to many of their Seniors in other parts of the world. The speaker laid considerable emphasis upon the development of one's physical as well as his mental nature, and closed by comparing Oxford's influence in Great Britain with that of McGill in Canada.

Professor MacNaughton made a few complimentary remarks congratulating his former pupil and welcoming him to McGill as his future colleague.

SIR LOMER COUIN WILL VISIT MCGILL ON NOV. 3

APPOINTMENTS MADE BY GOVERNORS MONDAY--- LORD GREY PRESENTS PORTRAITS TO THE UNIVERSITY

A meeting of the Board of Governors of the University was held on the 16th inst., when it was reported that Lord Grey had presented to the University portraits of himself and Lady Grey. Arrangements were made for the reception of the Lieutenant Governor of the Province, Sir Lomer Couin, who will pay a visit to the University Buildings on the 3rd of November, after which he will receive the Honorary Degree of LL.D. in the hall of the Royal Victoria College. Professor S. B. Slack was appointed to a seat on the Faculty of Arts. The following appointments were made in the Faculty of Medicine: Dr. J. Alex. Hutchison, appointed Associate Professor of Surgery and Clinical Surgery, with a seat on the Faculty of Medicine; Dr. J. M. Elder's title changed from that of Assistant Professor of Surgery and Lecturer in Clinical Surgery to that of Assistant Professor of Surgery and Clinical Surgery; Dr. D. D. MacTaggart appointed Professor of Medical Jurisprudence; Dr. J. S. Dohan appointed Lecturer in Crown and Bridge Work in the Dental Department; Dr. David Patrick, appointed lecturer in Gynaecology; Dr. C. B. Keenan, appointed Lecturer in Clinical Surgery;

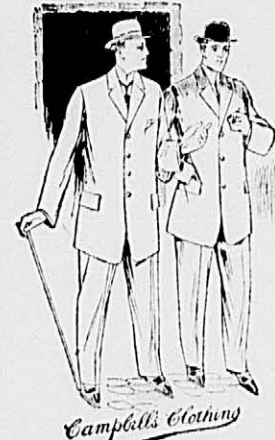

Dr. Philip Burnett, appointed Lecturer in Dermatology; Dr. J. L. Mason, appointed Lecturer in Pharmacy; Victor J. Harding, B. Sc., appointed Lecturer in Biological and Physiological Chemistry. Mr. O. F. Hague was appointed Demonstrator in the Department of Electrical Engineering; Dr. R. W. Boyle, Lecturer in Physics; Mr. N. E. Wheeler, Senior Demonstrator in Physics; Mr. J. W. Hayward, Demonstrator in Physics; Miss M. Paterson-Smythe and Mr. H. E. Reilly, Assistant Demonstrators in Physics; A. A. Scott, Assistant Demonstrator in Physics. EMPLOYMENT BUREAU IN OPERATION. — FIRST ANNOUNCEMENT YESTERDAY.

It is safe to say that a majority of students who are studying engineering in the faculty of Science are looking forward to the day when after graduation, a happy opportunity will present itself by which they may take positions of responsibility.

To the engineer, more than any other man, such a position means, and is the result of, not so much the knowledge of a technical nature involving calculus and other mysterious mathematics regarding which, a goodly number feel that they are but on the outside looking in, or the ability to design massive bridges, ponderous machinery or to dig out the wealth of the ground by most improved scientific methods; partly these, for sure, but more—much more—it is the result of an ability to handle intelligently a large number of men who are placed under him and whom he expects and requires to work efficiently, if he is to hold his job and carry his project through as it ought to be carried through.

While it is obviously needless to point out to college men the use which such training as is given here at McGill will be after getting out on the 'jobs,' the other, just as important and in a great many cases, more important phase of their education or training is overlooked while at college because of obvious reasons. This phase is the study of the human stuff with which they will most assuredly have to work with and get work from.

The engineer, so called, who on an ordinary job may be bustling with engineering ability as regards the theories of the work, if he cannot handle his human material as well as his beams, his machines or what not, is in no true sense an engineer, nor can he expect to do his work efficiently or even well.

The rough work which has to be done on most of the common engineering jobs, is done by foreigners, who have come over to this country to try and earn a living. As a rule, they are not inspiring people to meet nor do they attract one upon first acquaintance, but, if the engineer is to get out of this crude material anything like the work there is in it, it has been proven over and over again "by the men on the jobs" that must treat this material not as but as men who have feelings and ambitions like himself.

Something which the average college does not realize unless it be brought to the attention of the student and the instructor, is that the chair of that poor Mr. Kidd, like his pirate namesake, went through with flying sails.—College World.

help them somewhat and he will soon know his error.

The easiest way to help the foreigner, the way easiest at least to an English speaking student at college is that of teaching him English "as she is spoken." This is of all things other than food and clothing, that which he most needs and most desires.

The McGill Y. M., feeling that this is something which fellows in Science have been perhaps looking for and realizing the opportunity which it gives, not only to them to help themselves, but to help somebody else, which is far better, are organizing groups of foreigners down town with the intention of having them led by Science men who feel that the thing is worth while and are willing to put the stuff into it.

If they do, it is the wish of the Y. M. that these men let Mr. Russell Paterson, the Secretary, know of their willingness to be used in this way.

Owen Lovejoy, chairman of the National Child Labor Commission, addressed the Sociology Class of Michigan University last Friday on "Child Labor in all its Aspects."

The engineering department of Michigan has instituted a system of mentors for Freshmen, similar to that of the literary department. It is the aim of the department to get into closer touch with the students.

"The Awakened Rameses" is the name by which the 1911 Michigan and Union opera will be known. The book was written by A. W. Hudmit, '12, of Big Rapids, Mich.

Michigan is now offering a course in Engineering Photography, open only to Juniors and Seniors. The course embraces the theory of the negative and the photographic prints, as well as a knowledge of various kinds of photographic equipment. The course will also take up enlarging, the making of lantern slides, detailed views of structural works as well as other technical features.

KIDDED THE PROFESSOR.

O. Upward Kidd, until lately a student at the University of Pennsylvania, is no longer in the land of the living and for his premature death, Percy Van Dyke Shelley, B.S., A.M., professor of English, is held responsible. At the beginning of the last academic year, six Sophomores conspired to add the name of a mythical personage, O. U. Kidd, to the roster of Prof. Shelley's course in English composition. On the very rare occasion when "Kidd Ol Upward" was called on to recite, one of the sextet of his progenitors solemnly rose in the large and crowded class room and responded for him, and "O. U. Kidd," passed with flying colors. At different times in the year no fewer than eight themes were written in his weird name by as many different hands, and these won for their supposed author the heartiest encomiums.

"This man Kidd," said Prof. Shelley to his class one day, "seems to be doing unusually good work. There's extraordinary variety to it—so many angles of approach, so many different points of view, I cordially recommend him to the rest of you for your emulation." There may have been a few "loud grins" on the part of those who were let into the secret, but nobody "peached." When it came to the final examinations, the story leaked out, because nobody had time to see to it that poor Mr. Kidd, like his pirate namesake, went through with flying sails.—College World.

EFFECTIVE ROOTING

McGill men who were at the Toronto game on Saturday either as players or onlookers were impressed particularly by the Varsity rooting. It was a revelation to them to see such effective and thorough organization and they have returned eager to duplicate this at McGill. Let us give them every chance and assist our team very materially.

In recent years there has been a great deal of talk about rooters' clubs at McGill and a great many half-hearted meetings held for the purpose of "starting something" but we are not much farther ahead to-day than three years ago. There was a time when conditions were reversed—when our rooting and singing was the envy of both Varsity and Queen's. Such movements however like almost everything else move in cycles and what we want to do now is to swing the wheel to its old mark.

Consider, you men of McGill, what effective rooting will mean to the team at the present stage! Do you realize that the championship hangs in the balance and that encouragement in the form of enthusiastic organized and well-directed rooting may quite possibly be the deciding element? It is a toss-up between McGill and Toronto for first honours according to the dope dispensers but of course we do not place too much confidence in this class of hope manufacturers. At all events there is one sure thing and that is CHAMPIONSHIP CHANCES ARE INCREASED 25 PER CENT WITH EFFECTIVE ROOTING.

Realize this and you will attend the rooters' practices held in the Hall every afternoon at 5 o'clock. We do not want to report a practice with a paltry 2 or 3 hundred present. What we want to do is to report in Thursday's issue that over 700 students were at Wednesday's practice.

ALL UP TO-NIGHT AT THE HALL. This is a matter of supreme importance to McGill men individually and is doing splendid work and deserves every possible support. Just imagine what a real live football championship would mean to McGill!

The next two games of the intercollegiate series will be home games for McGill and if we are to figure for first honours both these must be won.

Captain Johnston is of the opinion that if the team gets a decent amount of support our chances are excellent. WELL, FELLOWS, IT IS UP TO YOU!

SPORTS DAY

On Friday the Annual University Sports Day will be celebrated and from all appearances it will be the best on record. Track and field athletics have been experiencing a marked revival at McGill this year. A greater number of competitors are out and furthermore this is a home season for the local club.

The events in the Daily handicaps and the Freshman-Sophomore meet were all keenly contested and show that the track team when eventually chosen will be a well-balanced one. From the point of view of a good afternoon's sport no student can afford to miss Friday's meet. A holiday is granted to all departments of the University and the inter-year competition at the M. A. A. A. is a social and official as well as an athletic event.

As regards the parades of the underclassmen which have always been a feature of Sports Day Friday should produce something unusually good. If the parade Theatre Night can be regarded as any criterion of what the freshmen and sophomores can do Sports Day will be an occasion to look forward to with every pleasurable anticipation. The parade theatre night was a splendid success. There was absolutely nothing to mar the whole procession and the underclassmen certainly deserve the highest possible commendation from all well wishers of Old McGill.

An additional stimulus to a good parade on Friday is the big banner offered by Mr. D. L. Davidson of the Students Supply to the class making the best showing. It is up to the freshmen and sophs to enter this competition in the spirit of keen but fair rivalry.

EDITORIAL NOTES

It is unfortunate that Mr. MacArthur made a mistake in Saturday's game at Toronto. It was evidently unintentional but it is to be sincerely hoped that in future the men in charge of the game will be more thoroughly acquainted with Intercollegiate rules. Without in any way wishing to "knock" we reproduce herewith a statement of the case as given to the Daily:—

During the fourth quarter with minutes to play with the score 18-10 for Varsity, McGill backs by a combination run brought the ball from the half line to within three yards of Varsity's line. On first down they advanced to within a yard of the line. Then the unsatisfactory decision was rendered. On their second down there was off-side interference in the Varsity scrimmage and the ball was given to McGill. Instead of following intercollegiate rules which read that when there is an offside inside the 5 yd line the distance to the line should be divided in half and the non-offending side given first down, the referee ordered McGill to take a free kick. This resulted only in a rouge and lost an almost inevitable touch-down.

Referee MacArthur remaining consistent to his reputation as a fair-minded and impartial official apologized to the McGill team in the dressing room later.

McGILL SHOWS ENORMOUS IMPROVEMENT IN TORONTO

CHANCES FOR THE INTERCOLLEGIATE CHAMPIONSHIP BRIGHTEST IN YEARS

The McGill - Toronto game in Toronto last week showed very forcibly that McGill has more than an even chance for the Intercollegiate Championship this year; it was almost impossible to recognize the team that came so near to defeating the Dominion Champions as virtually the same that played Ottawa on the Campus on last week ago. The improvement in every department of the game was very noticeable and at several stages of the game, notably in the 2nd and 3rd quarters the Red and White played the Champions right off their feet.

Billington not only lived up to his reputation but established himself as one of the greatest kicking half backs in Canada; it is doubtful if his work has ever been bettered on a Canadian gridiron and the Toronto press are all acclaiming him as the sensation of the season. Laing shared the honours of the day with him; his following up and tackling were magnificent and to quote a Toronto paper, "Laing was unquestionably the finest line man on the field; he has weight, speed and deadly tackling ability and uses them all to the best advantage; his work has seldom been equalled on a Toronto Campus." Lewis was not far behind him and followed up and tackling like a thunderbolt. The improvement in the whole line was the outstanding feature of the game. They gave Billington and Ross perfect protection and not a kick was blocked during the whole game. During the first five minutes the Toronto team made some big gains on bucks but the McGill line braced up wonderfully and with the exception of some bad holes on the left side of the lines were like a stonewall for the remainder of the game. While the disappointing feature of the Ottawa game was McGill's inability to gain ground on bucks, they found no difficulty in ripping up the Toronto line for substantial gains and made their yards on several occasions on the 1st down by straight line plunging: Gartshore, Waterous, Johnson and Digby were very prominent in this department and it is to be sincerely hoped that Gartshore will be able to play regularly as he strengthened up the team enormously on offence; both he and Digby will be a great strength to the team. Waterous and Johnson's defensive work are worthy of special mention while the following up and tackling of both Timmins and Oliver stood out prominently. On the back division Murray caught well on the whole and ran splendidly but his passing was a little loose; Ross was very slow in getting started but was very steady on the defensive, while Lee, after some bad fumbling in the first five minutes, caught perfectly and tackled very cleanly. It is to be hoped that Ernie Paisley will soon recover his old form of last year.

The only mistakes made on the back division were loose passing and failure to back each other up on catches which lost them one touchdown and several rouges. There is a very bad tendency on the part of the whole team to get rid of the ball indiscriminately and it is a fault that has got to be eradicated very quickly. The passing was very poor on combination runs and the back division can stand a lot of improvement in this respect; more combination would have gained them a great many yards on Saturday.

On the whole, Old McGill has every reason to be proud of the showing made and we all look for a victory when Toronto comes down on the 24th; in that case McGill and Toronto will probably play off on neutral grounds and taking Saturdays game as a criterion, the Red and White should just about be able to turn the trick and bring the trophy to its rightful place in the Redpath Library. Queens comes here on Saturday and although they went down to defeat in Ottawa, they always give McGill a stiff argument and a rattling good game may be expected. Let every McGill man turn out and both by his presence and his voice help the team on to victory. We look for a great improvement in the rooting over that in the last game; the Toronto rooting was an object lesson in what can be accomplished by system and practice and incidentally they gave the McGill yell with the "Out for Gore" included better than it has been heard on this Campus in years. Let's profit by this on Saturday.

"Student Life," published at Washington University, St. Louis, Mo., is among our brightest and most interesting exchanges. It is attractively gotten up from literary, artistic, and mechanical viewpoints, and reflects great credit upon its management.

ENGLISH RUGBY
 MCGILL VS THE C. P. R.
 The English Rugby Football Team succeeded in winning their second match of the season, and again had no points scored against them. The match took place near the Angus team Works, Ontario street. The McGill team arrived after a most successful complicated ride, and was told a room had been engaged for it in a neighbouring inn, but, on learning the use to which his room was to be put, the Innkeeper suddenly remembered he had to serve a banquet in it during the afternoon, and as he said it was the only room in the house, and in spite of entreaties, maintained that football boots and banquets will not go together, there was nothing left but to withdraw, but we understand that some members paid a more successful visit to this inn at the conclusion of the game.

The ground on which the match was played was rather bald, but nevertheless the game was thoroughly enjoyed and never lacked in interest.

De Hart kicked off for McGill, and C.P.R. returned into touch. Several rather loose scrums ensued, and indeed this sort of scrum was rather the order during the first half, neither packs being successful in heaving the ball back often, but C.P.R. certainly did so more frequently than did the McGill forwards; for when the latter did succeed in getting possession in the scrum they seldom had the ball out, and did not give their outsiders many chances of scoring. Only once did McGill get over the C.P.R. line, and then unfortunately Busbee failed to touch the ball down. Shortly after the C.P.R. team got into the McGill 25, and had a kick for off-side. However they did not score, as the ball was charged down by the McGill forwards most effectually. The first half ended soon after, with no score to either side.

For a short time in the second half neither side gained any particular advantage, but soon the McGill forwards began to work much better, and frequently had the ball back to their outsiders. However they seemed to be carried across the field too much, and the runs generally ended in touch. However, while in the C.P.R. 25 McGill got a free kick for offside, and McKinnon kicked over the heads of the C.P.R. forwards, caught the ball very cleverly, and dashed over the C.P.R. line, scoring McGill's first try. De Hart failed to convert (score 3-0).

Several scrums and lines out followed, and in these McGill generally more than held their own, keeping always in the C.P.R. half, and often in the C.P.R. 25. Shortly before the close of the game McKinnon again scored a good try for McGill, going right through the opposing team himself. De Hart failed to convert (score 6-0). It was not long after that "inside" was called, leaving McGill the victors with a score of 6 to nil. The game was an excellent one, and thoroughly enjoyed by both sides, and was clean through out.

Back: Desbriay; three quarters: McNiven, Heape, Gordon, Busbee; half-backs: McKinnon, Galloway; forwards: Crossfield, Scott, De Hart, Barker, Leeson, Crosley, Baldwin, A. N. Other.

We understand that, as a result of the match between McGill and the C. P. R., the stock of the latter has dropped considerably, and the directors of the Company are considering the advisability of closing down.

FRESHMEN SPEAK TO-NIGHT
PRELIMINARY TO INTER-COLLEGIATE TRY-OUT

The Lit. exec. altered its programme yesterday in order to give the Freshmen a chance to display whether or not they have intercollegiate talent in their midst. Following the custom which has been in vogue for several years an impromptu debate will be held to determine this momentous question. The plan is as follows:—

Subjects are written on pieces of paper and placed in a hat. A speaker draws a subject and is given about ten minutes to hold over it. He then is allowed to hold forth for a space of about five minutes.

All newcomers at McGill should take advantage of this occasion.

Remember it is your one and only chance to be "found" as far as the first intercollegiate debate is concerned. The entry list for all except Freshmen closed last Saturday.

To-night's meeting will be held in Strathcona Hall at 8 o'clock. It should prove unusually interesting.

Only 90 candidates have reported for the U. of P. crew. Over 150 men were expected to turn out.

INTERCOLLEGIATE TENNIS MEET
 The Third Intercollegiate Tennis Meet took place on the Royal Military College Courts, Kingston, on Thursday and Friday of last week. Weather and ground conditions were perfect, and the combination of the time, the place, and the men made a particularly successful tournament. As many of the McGill men know from happy experience the Royal Military College is the best of hosts—a fact—which the men of this year's tennis team will certainly bear out. Four universities competed for this year's championships—Toronto, Queens, R.M.C., and McGill. R.M.C. proved too strong for the others and captured not only the highest aggregate of points but also the single and double championships. Their great point winner was "Dusty" Rhodes who won the "Singles" championship and with the help of McDool carried off the honours in the "doubles". As he intends to come to McGill next season the Intercollegiate Tennis Trophy ought not to be long away from its resting place of the present year. In the meantime we congratulate Mr. Rhodes and his team for their well deserved success of this year. McGill need not feel ashamed of taking second place to such a team.

Toronto and Queens were not as strong as last year. They took third and fourth place respectively. Queens misses Dobson and Dyde very much. The tournament began Thursday morning, and Mills led off for McGill by defeating Weegering of Toronto. In the afternoon Mills again scored by taking a match from Carruthers. Jones and Mills put up a stiff fight against Rhodes and McDool in the doubles but in vain. Ramsey won two points— from McDool and McLauchlin (Queens) respectively. On Friday Mills was forced by Green to retire while Ramsey met his fate at the hands of Rhodes, Jackson and Dempster scored twice for McGill by defeating teams from Toronto and R.M.C. Hope ran high for a repetition of last year's success in the doubles but was shattered on the rock of Rhodes and McDool. The play-off between Green and Rhodes of R.M.C. for the single championship brought the very pleasant and successful tournament to a close.

Next year we look forward to a good team. But there are men in college who could make the team better if they will turn out. The tennis trip is the best trip of the Intercollegiate athletic series. All the team say so. Come up to Toronto next fall and find out for yourself.

The Annual Meeting of the I.T.A. was held at R.M.C. on evening of Friday, the 13th. Reports were reviewed and trophies awarded. The following officers were then elected: Hon. Pres.—Mr. Rhodes, R.M.C. President—Mr. Carruthers, R.M.C. V. Pres.—Presidents of McGill, Queens and Toronto tennis clubs. Sec. Tres.—Mr. Weegering, Toronto Committee—Secretaries of McGill and Queens tennis clubs.

Three matches of the Senior-Sophomore tie were played off on Monday he result leaves the Sophomores four points ahead, with one game to be played off.

The following matches have been played:—

H. Cameron '12 vs. M. Longworth '14; score 7-9.

E. Longworth '12 vs. E. Cameron '14; score 5-11.

L. Manny '12 vs. I. McCan '14; score 10-6.

GOLDIE, FORMER R.M. C. STAR WITH MCGILL

The Senior team had a good workout yesterday afternoon. All the Senior squad were out with the exception of George Laing. "Sink" McEwenne and "Burt" Wilkes, George Murray arrived late. There was quite a lot of talk on the Campus among the spectators when "Pat" Goldie, the big wing man of last year's R. M. C. team turned out to practice. Goldie started at Boston "Tech" but didn't care for it so came to Montreal yesterday. He was a tower of strength to the Cadets last year and will do well here if given an opportunity.

The team had a smart workout under the eyes of Dan Gillmor and Andy Davies. Billington, Masson and Lee pulled off some good runs. Billington's running and dodging was superb, but he should be more careful in his passing. Allan Oliver was out after resting up Monday. His hip is still a bit sore, but will be O. K. for Saturday. All the Seniors were in good form except Erny Paisley and Graham Ross who were a bit off colour.

For the Intermediate, Williamson, Goldie, Gillmor and Craig did good work. Craig's punting being particularly noteworthy.

CROWLS FROM THE CROUCHER
 Bowie has been temporarily shelved to make room for Timmins and Savage. If Phil doesn't get his place again it won't be for lack of trying.

Hovey with six entries on Saturday is evidently out for the individual all around Track Championship. He is certainly of a likely looking build, but would do better to confine himself to one line, say weights.

The route race with eight entries was one of the chief features of Saturday's meet. They were bunched all the way and the first five finished within five yards of each other.

The half mile and mile events were both won by Macdonald College men, Young taking the former and White the latter.

Ottawa College made some whirlwind finishes on Saturday against Queens. With the score 14 to 5 against them in the last quarter they went over for two touchdowns in quick succession and nosed out a win 15 to 14.

Ryan, a newcomer from Mount Allison, Sackville, is doing some good track work. His performance in the hundred impressed the spectators on Wednesday.

Another speed boy has been unearthed in Mackay from the maritime provinces. Mackay's specialty is the two twenty.

Fraser, a coloured sprinter from the West Indies gave Stanley a good race in the quarter on Saturday. Stanley won the hundred quite handily from a good field in 19 3-5 secs.

The sincere thanks of the entire student body is due to the Faculty of Applied Science for so kindly setting two examinations for Hilary Bignalt on Saturday, and one for Mike Turnbull on Monday. We trust that when these estimable gentlemen read the reports of the game they will feel that their labours which deprived the team of two of her strongest wing men, have been handsomely rewarded.

No use talking that Campbell-Maynard combination is hard to beat. Each one got a touch on Saturday and Maynard converted both. Jack and Pete learned the game together and both played for Trinity College School in the Little Big Four.

It looks good to see Old Bill Gartshore back in the game again. This is Bills' sixth year in College.

"Dave" Craig, the Montreal High boy, showed up well in the Fresh-Soph meet on Saturday. He is a likely looking high-jumper and ought to catch the Track team if he does well in the University meet.

The soccer team faded rather sadly in the last half of the Varsity game, a little more team play wouldnt do them any harm.

Our own "Wicky" Wilson the popular manager of the 1909 team handled the Varsity game on Saturday in conjunction with J. B. MacArthur of Toronto.

With such a wealth of material on hand we hardly see how McGill can lose the Intercollegiate Track Meet. In addition to the old men who are in fine form, each day seems to unearth some new speed artist on track whom who bids fair to smash College and Intercollegiate record. Every encouragement is being offered to new men to turn out and show what they can do.

"Burt" Wilkes of last year's Intermediates was out to practices last week and was tackling like a thunderbolt. Burt went to Toronto with the team as spare wing man.

Tough luck on young Joe Halt getting his arm hurt so early in the season. Joe will certainly be heard from next year.

We are glad to hear that "Jerry" Davidson will be back in College. Had he left he would have been a big loss to the Hockey and Harrier teams.

The Little Big Four got under way on Saturday last. Trinity College School defeated St. Andrews College in a close game by 10 to 8.

McDougal broke two college and one Intercollegiate records in Saturdays meet. With Gunn the mew Phenom and "Big" Mac on the weights and discs McGill will make a clean sweep in the Intercollegiate meet.

The Class of Arts 1913 is infinitely obliged to Mr. Blitter's interfactory lectures, in interruption and supplementation to Dr Leacock's Course in Political Science.

SNAPPY WORKOUT MONDAY

The Senior squad was out on Monday for a light signal practice. Oliver was missing from the line-up, his sore hip troubling him a bit. Some trick plays were tried out and seemed to work well. If the work is as snappy and accurate in the Queens game next Saturday, McGill will have them guessing.

ALICE LLOYD AT THE ORPHEUM

GREAT ENGLISH COMEDienne
MAKES TREMENDOUS HIT

This week's bill at the Orpheum is in many ways the best of the season thus far. Alice Lloyd is of course the feature. Her appearance in Montreal is always anticipated with the greatest pleasure by all lovers of what is best in vaudeville. Alice Lloyd seems to embody all that is exquisite, dainty and histrionically magnetic. One cannot listen to her repertoire of songs be they old or new without experiencing a thrill of almost indescribable pleasure. Beside several old popular hits such as "Who are you getting at eh?" and "Splash Me", Miss Lloyd is giving several entirely new songs which all make the biggest kind of a hit.

Another good feature in Mr. Driscoll's show this week is the list of songs by Lee White and George Perry who are called back time and again with the most vociferous applause. Among the best songs are: "Slip on your glad rags and come with me", "Baby Rose", "Way Back in Tennessee". The show is worth seeing if for this act alone.

Staley and Birbeck's — "the mysterious Musical Blacksmiths" — put on an excellent quick transformation act.

John T. Ray and Wm. F. Rogers "Two Odd Fellows" put on a clever oddity performance and received well-merited applause.

The rest of the show is about average. Al Lawrence a monologist is clever in parts but is too long.

"An Up-Town Flat" — a sketch — might be improved with the addition of a little variety. Duffy and Edwards put on the usual line of comedy bar work. The Juggling Burkes is much cleverer than the average run of club swinging acts.

"WITH EDGED TOOLS"

STRONG DRAMA AT THE PRINCESS

A large audience at the Princess greeted the opening performance of a thrilling dramatization of Henry Seton Merriman's novel, "With Edged Tools." The drama which illustrates the folly of trifling with edged tools, was rendered in a very acceptable fashion by the Original English Company. The plot unravels itself as follows:

Jack Meredith is engaged to Millicent Cheyne. Sir John, Jack's father, realizing her to be shallow and insincere, opposes the alliance and Jack decides to go to Africa and seek the wherewithal to marry her. Millicent, whose ideals of honour are not above reproach, has also given a half promise to Guy Osgood, who has the advantage of being better off than Jack Meredith. The villain, in the person of Victor Durnovo makes a proposal to Meredith and Oscar to go to Africa in search of the Simia seed, a valuable drug. In company with Durnovo both men leave for Africa, pledged to the same woman.

The second act reveals the heroine in the form of Jocelyn Gordon who is living on the West Coast of Africa, keeping house for her brother, a trader. Meredith saves the girl more than once from the hideous attentions of Durnovo, who is in love with her. Durnovo, insanely jealous, leaves Meredith to die in the wilds of the forest, and only Josephyn's cable to Osgood, who has gone to England, saves his life.

After his rescue Jocelyn goes to England where she meets Millicent Cheyne and Sir John Meredith. In a clever fashion she wins the affection of the old man and shows Millicent up in her true light. On her return to Africa Jocelyn nurses Jack Meredith back to life. Here Durnovo gets his just deserts, and falls a victim to the dreaded sleeping sickness.

In the fifth act, Millicent, having trifled with the edged tools, finds herself empoiled upon them. Brought face to face with both her lovers, there is nothing for her to say and she says nothing. Sir John who has cleverly contrived to have Oscar on hand, still has another trick up his sleeve and produces at the psychological moment, Jocelyn, who has arrived from Africa. The curtain is rung down on a loving embrace.

The cast is a strong one. Richard Hicks does the polished old Sir John Meredith to perfection. Hamilton Deane, who reminds one of George Arliss, made a good impression as the hero of the piece. Campbell Goldsmith, who played the role of Victor Durnovo was probably the most deserving of praise. His work all through was particularly good, and especially when, pursued by his slaves he seeks refuge in the Gordon house, and dies of sleeping sickness. Miss Marie Leonhard made a very sweet and attractive Jocelyn. With so strong a vehicle, and such a well balanced cast, the company should play to capacity houses during its engagement.

DELTA SIGMA SOCIETY

The Delta Sigma Society of the R. V. C. will give scenes from Dickens' "Our Mutual Friend" on Wednesday afternoon at 3.30. All R. V. C. Undergraduates and Partials are cordially invited to attend.

At Dtrathcona Hall at five o'clock today the year of 1912 will hold its first annual meeting. All up, Officers will be elected.

BIBLE CLASS AT STRATHCONA HALL

There seems to be in these days, when all the emphasis is being put upon the teaching of the New Testament, a widespread neglect of the study of the Old Testament books. It is probably true, however, that no one can truly appreciate the New Testament and its teaching without a certain amount of knowledge and grasp of what is contained in the Old. For those who wish to gain a foundation for future study a class is to be held in Room "B" Strathcona Hall every Wednesday from 7 to 8 P.M. for nine weeks. Rev. R. Bruce Taylor, M. A., of Saint Paul's Church, is to be its leader, and the topics which will be taken up in the Meetings are given by him as follows:—

- 1—The Race from which the Old Testament Sprang.
- 2—How we got the Old Testament.
- 3—Early Narratives in Genesis and their Babylonian Analogies.
- 4—The Preparation for a Canon: Ancient Sources.
- 5—The Language of the Old Testament.
- 6—The Historical Criticism of the Old Testament.
- 7—Versions of the Old Testament.
- 8—Between the Old Testament and the New.
- 9—The Apocrypha.

All students are invited to attend the first session this evening.

ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING GREETED C.W. STEPHENS

FIRST CANADIAN CLUB MEETING OF TERM IS TREMENDOUS SUCCESS. — INVITATION TO MCGILL MEN.

The first sessional meeting of the McGill Canadian Club was characterized by tremendous enthusiasm. The gathering was fairly representative, and listened to Mr. Stephens' remarks with the greatest interest.

Mr. George Washington Stephens is a McGill graduate of 11 years standing, and took post-graduate work at Heidelberg and other German Universities for two or three years, but still he is distinctly a McGill man, and it was as a McGill man of prominence that he was listened to. As a member of the famous Harbor Commission, Mr. Stephens' lecture was worth something to all those who take an interest in Montreal and her progress.

He assured the students before commencing his speech, that anything he might say would be of an absolutely informal nature, that they had lectures enough during the day, and so he would make his few remarks more in the nature of a heart to heart talk. He began by making a careful and exhaustive study of European ports—contrasting the perfection there obtained by overcoming immense difficulties, with the wonderful latent possibilities in Canada, where nature has been so favorable to us; what we need here is development. Our old system is not effective enough to ensure us this development. We must look forward to a constant change in ideas, and in the management and carrying out of those ideas. It is to the young men of the coming generation that we must look and it is McGill and other Canadian institutions of learning who will supply them.

He went on to say of the Harbour Commission that the old committee of 11 was now supplanted by a new one of 3, taken on one year's probation, and given a free hand. If their results at the end of the year were O. K. there was a permanent job for them as long as they gave satisfaction. The men who initiated the new system have remained in office ever since, said Mr. Stephens.

Their accomplishments have been great. Unhampered by political graft or other limitations, they have gone ahead, carrying into realization their own dreams of Montreal's destiny. Efficiency, Economy and Progress have been their watchwords, with these as their war cry, they have always worked consistently in the interests of the city.

Mr. Stephens then outlined the Harbour River and Canal System, characterizing it as a vast waterway of unrealized worth. "Gentlemen, it is the greatest system beyond a doubt upon the continent. It would reach almost from New York to Salt Lake City if laid down upon the American side. If we were to place it across the sweeping extent of Europe, it would extend from the North Sea to the foot of the Ural Mountains. From British Guiana to Buenos Ayres in South America. If we were to transplant it to Africa, laying it along the equator, it would cut the continent in two. I like to make this analogy," said Mr. Stephens, "because it brings home to Canadians, and more especially to Montreal men just what advantages we have here, and just what a place and city this Montreal of ours is.

"The possibilities of that great channel are incalculable, in opening up this vast continent of ours, when in the future the demands upon her will be so great. We have there a channel 30 feet by 500, 800 at the curves taking an average—as safe for ships as the open ocean, lighted from end to end. Ten years ago the biggest ship that could dock at Montreal was one of 5,000 tons. Today ships of 15,000 tons enter and leave our port. An increase or rise of 300 per cent. in the last decade. I ask you gentlemen, with these remarkable figures before you, use your fertile imagination to tell me what the next decade holds for this great waterway and for Montreal. (Loud applause.)

"Great improvements and enlargements are under way. We are every day luring more and more of Uncle Sam's shipping down this way, and the more the merrier, gentlemen, if they are willing to pay us — (Applause) and why shouldn't they if it is cheaper than the other route?" "We in Montreal handle $1,050,000 worth of goods every day. Our terminal yards take charge of the cars of every railway, handle them and turn them over. The finest system of its kind in the world."

Mr. Stephens then recounted an interesting story of the appointment of their yard superintendent.

"But, gentlemen, we have the right man. In the five years he has been in charge there have been absolutely no complaints. And furthermore," said Mr. Stephens, "he has pulled down the cost of handling freight from 43 cents a ton to 21½ cents, just one-half."

Mr. Stephens concluded his speech by showing the fallacy of the argument of those who have depreciated Montreal's possibilities of becoming the greatest port on the continent, because this city has only eight months of weather suitable for navigation. He pointed out that in spite of this handicap, Canada's greatest metropolis showed a larger volume of tonnage per annum than did such ports as Boston, Baltimore, and other American harbours, which do an all-year trade, and outlined the tremendous future that is in store for Montreal. Mr. Stephens went on to say that no speaker, however eloquent or well informed he might be could possibly do justice to the improvements which have actually been installed and invited the students at their convenience to take a trip in one of the Commissioners' boats, so that they could actually see what had been done and form an idea for themselves as to what the future of Montreal will be.

At the close of Mr. Stephens' eloquent and instructive speech he was cheered to the echo by his auditors, who fully appreciated the deep significance of his remarks.

We wish to add that we hope the Canadian Club of McGill University will be supported enthusiastically by the students and that they realize the good such organizations do, not only to themselves, but also to Canada as a whole. The scheme of Canadian Clubs is of comparatively recent origin, the first having been founded in Hamilton, Ont., not so many years ago, but that its foundation is well remembered by all who have the interest of the subject truly at heart.

Since the original club came into being the idea has spread with tremendous strides. Today every town and city of any importance in the Dominion boasts of its Canadian Club, and is proud of the work that it is accomplishing. The aims and ideals of all these organizations are practically identical. They endeavor to educate us to realize what is best for the successful development of Canada and to act upon the advice of eminent men, who have studied deeply the various subjects connected with the different political, commercial and social aspects of the Dominion.
